It's Such a Problem

TO have or not to have curly hair is something of a question of importance if records of the beauty parlors or the stock on the drug store shelves may be taken as a barometer. Men and women, however, do not agree on the problem. A checkup shows that while the men are paying no label untried to gain that sleek, glossy gleam for their locks, women are banishing the beauty parlors for that which will make the permanent more permanent.

Men who take to the top of the house when an entertaining feminine sister brings out the picture "taken when he had curls," spend more than one anxious moment putting out of commission a wave that might would risk her own or anybody else's fortune to attain. Dozens of gallons of liquid are sold to make curly hair straight and dozens of gallons are sold to make straight hair curly.

Men have always been more or less interested in their locks while women have been frank in their concern in regard to their crowning glory. Up from the days of lamp black and lard oil have come the scented and potent liquids which put big brother's hair in place and keeps it there, and the permanent waving machine has been the answer to the prayer of those whose braids furnished an excuse for those gorgeous hair ribbons which used to come in pairs and once in a while in quadruplets.

Cheers for Vermont

NOW come operations directed at the lowly car driver!

Mrs. Jo A. Gallagher, secretary of the Marion Automobile club, is author for the statement that such a law has been added to the long list of drivers' regulations now in existence.

She names Vermont as the state that is certain to win fame for its effort to silence those who attempt to be combination passengers and chauffeurs.

"The back seat driver belongs in the category of national pests," says Mrs. Gallagher, "and has been made the butt of numerous jokes and cartoons. Some have gone so far as to suggest a national convention of back seat drivers."

The Vermont law holds that "a person shall not operate, attempt to operate, or participate in the steering or operation of a motor vehicle, except in an emergency, unless seated directly behind the steering wheel of such vehicle."

Busy Place

IN a room where the floor is almost entirely covered with boxes of blank returns, members of the office force of Frank A. Beery, district census supervisor, are busy at work these days getting ready for the big quadrennial census drive which will open on or about April 1. The office is located in the Chamber of Commerce rooms in the Marion National Bank Bldg.

Since the census enumeration must, by law, be completed before May 1, Beery's staff is getting preliminary details out of the way preparatory to sending the [illegible] enumerators out into the district on April 1.

Beery already has his enumerators have been hearing the industrial census, but the [illegible] house canvass will not begin April 1 is the bigger task.

The case was dismissed after a settlement was reached out of court. King was receiver for the Recorded Exhaust Motor Co.

REPUBLICAN PARTY MAY LOSE LEADER

Claudius Huston Expected To Resign Post as Outcome of Senate Hearing.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 21—An ultimate decision to resign as chairman of the Republican national committee was expected of Claudius H. Huston as administration and party circles today considered the testimony brought out in his case before the senate lobby committee.

He has announced he will stick to his post. Any further decision on his part, it was believed in quarters close to the situation, would await the conclusion of the hearings and the report of Senator Caraway's investigating group.

President Hoover declined to comment and no indication came from the White House as to the sentiment of the chief executive. The president, however, was known to be watching the situation carefully and keeping in close touch with party leaders.

Closely Watched

Congressional leaders, too, were maintaining a close watch on the case. Huston is popular at the capital and his friends there are demanding that he be given a full hearing before passing judgment. There are some among the legislators, however, who believe he should resign.

With one-third of the senate and the entire membership of the house up for election in the fall, there is particular interest in the Huston case, especially among those most concerned, the Republican senators and representatives who are running for reelection.

Brokerage Account Shown

In investigating extra-official activities in connection with Muscle Shoals legislation, the lobby committee revealed that as president of the Tennessee River Improvement association, Huston collected $35,100 from the Union Carbide Co. for the furtherance of the association's work. This sum, the testimony revealed, he deposited with his New York broker and used partially to cover a marginal stock account.

West Mansfield Woman Charged with Fraud

Florence Ballinger, of West Mansfield, is being held to the grand jury under $200 bond on a charge of issuing a check without funds. The charge was preferred by Henry Robbs, who claims she issued a check to the National Store without sufficient funds in the bank to meet it. She was bound over to the grand jury when arraigned before Judge William R. Martin in municipal court.

ESCAPED CONVICT KILLED BY POLICE

Companion in Break Escapes; Bloodhounds on Trail.

By The Associated Press

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 21—Thomas Barnes, one of two prisoners who made a break from Springfield prison camp today, was killed in a gun battle with county officers near here today.

Reports at the county jail gave no information concerning Lee Hodgens who accompanied Barnes in the dash for liberty.

The sheriff's posse, headed by Sheriff John J. Scogin, it was understood, encountered the convicts when they abandoned a truck they had commandeered in the western section of the city.

Barnes and Hodgens fled the prison after shooting and seriously wounding two guards. Barnes' body was found in a house after officers were notified by residents there that a wounded man had stumbled into the building. The convict had been shot through the heart.

The prisoners, Lee Hudgens, serving a two to three year sentence, and Tom Barnes, serving a 25-year sentence for bank robbers, stepped from the line and opened fire without warning. Four bullets struck Haltzer and one struck Richardson. Blood hounds were brought here from Kilby prison to trail the fugitives.

MINERS ASK RETURN OF JOINT WAGE SCALE

Close Constitutional Convention Committed to Revival of Former System.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 21—Committed to a strenuous attempt to restore the old joint wage scale procedure in the bituminous fields, delegates to the thirty-first constitutional convention of the United Mine Workers of America returned to their homes in all parts of the nation and Canada today.

The 10-day convention costing the union more than $150,000 adjourned early last night.

Most important of the convention's actions was the unanimous passage of a resolution during closing hours directing districts to renew their individual wage contracts to expire simultaneously on April 1, 1931.

If this action is accomplished, it means that the miners will be in a position to take joint action to obtain wage increases from the operators of the bituminous fields. It also will revive the strike threat that always accompanies the expiration of wage scale agreements.

International officials and delegates said that the resolution was an effort to revive the fighting strength and solidarity of the union, which waned when Illinois union chieftains two years ago forced the international board members to authorize district wage agreements.

Federal Prohibition Agents Make Big Haul During January

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 21—Federal prohibition agents during January were captured a total of 1,600 stills ranging in size from a tea kettle and copper pipe affair to plants capable of turning out 2500 gallons of alcohol a day.

Chairman Sam of Prohibit n Director in announcing this today said of the total 730 plants were producing alcohol from corn sugar.

These plants, located principally in Chicago, Detroit, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and in New England he added cost from $10,000 to $50,000 apiece and produced from 1,000 to 2,000 gallons of pure alcohol a day, more as much as two carloads of corn sugar on a 24 hour run.

Might Prove a Good Investment.

Dr. Herman Goodman recently demonstrated before an audience of the Society of Medical Jurisprudence in the New York Academy of Medicine a machine of his invention which projects lightless rays, by filtering visible rays through specially prepared glass, which may prove as valuable for commercial use as he has found it to be in the pursuit of his profession

The doctor invented and perfected his machine for the projection of what he calls black rays which are of the ultra-violet character for the detection of minute tissue diseases of the skin invisible through a microscope He discovered its commercial possibilities when he observed the appearance of articles foreign to his calling under its rays That it can be used for the detection of forgery altering checks the adulteration of alcohol and the reading of invisible inks was made plain by the doctor's demonstration

One of the doctor's demonstrations was the dropping of a speck of dust into one of two pitchers of distilled water Under the ordinary light there wasn't the slightest difference in the appearance of the water in the two pitchers, nor did the directing of the rays show any impurity in the water in one pitcher But when it was directed at the pitcher into which the speck of dust far less in size than the head of a pin, had been dropped the water showed a brilliant electrical blue

Dr Goodman stated that no process of distillation will remove the telltale evidence of a foreign substance in liquor even though it be as small as 1 5 000 000th of the mass and that by identifying the source from the color each foreign ingredient producing a different color the problem of tracing the sources of bootleg liquor recovered from industrial alcohol may be greatly simplified

While many readers will not be interested in the tracing of bootleg liquor to its source it seems to us that the purchase of such machines would show judgment on the part of the fellows who can drink it or let it alone if they will persist in not letting it alone.

Arson as a Profession.

[illegible] and [illegible] in New York City the [illegible] gangsters [illegible] burning up [illegible] stocks [illegible] owners to get the insurance on them is another story But United States Attorney Tuttle has announced that he has the confession of a man held under arrest there and ample proof to substantiate the man's story who admits having burned up scores of goods which entailed losses on the part of insurance companies aggregating $500,000

The arrest is a development of the indictment of five members of a fur firm In making a case against them the government and the state got a line on the activities of this arsonist who charges $1000 a job and has been operating all over the country The first part of his game is to convince a merchant or firm in bad business that a fire is better than bankruptcy where the books always remain to make trouble or a failure burglary because of the interference of the police in looking for a burglar

The merchant or firm employing the arsonist hires a nearby room holding out that he is in the chemical business He buys five gallon cans of alcohol which are spirited into and hidden away in the store to be burned This may take weeks or months When what is deemed a sufficient quantity of alcohol is at hand—500 gallons were used in the fire for which the indictments were returned—it is emptied into barrels a barrel on each of two three or four floors as the case may require The tins are hauled away and then a punk stick the same as a boy uses in lighting firecrackers is set afire and so placed as to ignite matches near each barrel This done, the incendiary turns on the spigots in the barrels and departs It may take an hour or two for the burning punk to fire the matches When it does the store becomes a furnace

One of the fur merchants indicted has confessed that, before the incendiary under arrest pulled off his job, he the merchant removed $140,000 worth of insured furs to the store of his brother expecting to sell them and collect the insurance also If there are convictions the merchants and the helping they hired will face sentences aggregating many years the federal charges being the using of the mails to defraud each letter written by the merchants to the insurance companies giving ground for a separate count, and the state will indict for arson

In connection with the case Fire Marshal Thomas Brophy of New York made the significant statement that notwithstanding the fact that the present has been the worst year in the fur trade in twenty years there hasn't been another fire of the kind mentioned since the one for which the arrests were made which was quite different from his experience in other periods of depression similar to the one from which the country is emerging

Incidentally it may be remarked that the facts outlined herein will give the reader one of the reasons why insurance companies charge the rates they do for fire protection

The New Health Arrangement.

State Health Commissioner Charles D Neal has expressed his gratification over the decision of the city and county health boards to employ a health commissioner to serve the city and county alike and the selection of Dr N Sifritt for the newly created position However it was not necessary for the state health commissioner to voice his pleasure over the course pursued by the two health boards which by the way are to retain their separate identities to convince the people of the two political divisions that the action taken by the boards was a good one it was generally favored throughout the city and county when first suggested

There had been some dissatisfaction over the handling of the city cases, not so much due to lack of ability as to lack of agreement among those to whom the health of the city had been committed This is obviated by the naming of a commissioner to have charge of the health of both divisions and be responsible for the inspection of milk and meats The splendid record made by Dr Sifritt in protecting the [illegible] sufficient guarantee of his care of the city's health with Dr J T Graham as chief and milk inspector

A CHANCE FOR GUN PRACTICE.

Care of Children's Teeth.

BY ROYAL S COPELAND, M D.

Much interest is being shown in the care of children's teeth both by the dental profession and the medical profession By public education they hope to accomplish what seems like an almost impossible task by any other means. Parents are encouraged to bring their children to the free dental clinic

The need for care of a child's first teeth is a matter which is overlooked all too frequently Most parents believe that it is a natural thing for the first teeth to come out and that on this account they require no care This is not true If the first teeth are not taken care of, the second teeth come in with lessened vitality

Give your child a chance to have perfect teeth Take him to the dentist or clinic often enough to keep decay under control Once every six months is not too often

Nutrition has a place of great importance in the matter of the teeth The diet of the growing child should be carefully watched Its rapid growth calls for an abundance of good protein foods and the minerals which are bone and teeth forming factors They must have the necessary vitamins to promote growth and energy

Milk is an essential for every child at least a quart every day If a child gets tired of drinking milk change may be had by giving him this amount of milk in the form of custards creamed soups in puddings and other ways

Even the youngest child should have an abundance of fruit juices especially orange juice and tomato juice besides milk in the diet. The growing child needs an abundance of the fresh fruits and vegetables, especially the leafy vegetables and tomatoes He should be given liberal amounts of them lettuce spinach cauliflower cabbage

Eggs are an excellent protein food They possess easily digested fats iron and the vitamins especially the 'antirachitic factors' Soft boiled or poached or shirred eggs are better than fried eggs

Cereals served with milk form another excellent protein food Oatmeal rolled oats wheatena and shredded wheat are all good cereals

Children should be taught to keep the teeth clean They should be brushed night and morning, with a stiff brush, with or without dentifrice

Food should not be allowed to collect between the teeth These spaces are a breeding place for all sorts of germs for it must be realized that the moist mouth is a place where germs always lurk Many persons use an antiseptic mouth wash these days It is a safe habit.

It is of the utmost importance that your child visit a dentist or clinic frequently It is necessary that food be thoroughly chewed A child can not chew its rough bits food with decayed and broken teeth Decayed teeth are the cause of many infections and this in itself is reason enough why your child should have every advantage of good sound teeth

Editorial Opinion.

SAILING HOME FROM HAITI

Sailing home across the blue Caribbean President Hoover's Haiti commission has good reason to feel pleased with its short, but fruitful visit. The commission leaves Haitians feeling better toward America than they have for many years

Details of the commission's plan for liquidation of the American intervention will not be known until it reports to the president But it is no secret that the substitution of a civilian for a military head of the American administration will be urged together with the gradual withdrawal of marines

Haiti has behind it the record of a century of native turmoil She has intelligent and educated leaders of her own but they have shown in the past little aptitude for orderly government As in the United States the better element in Haiti has allowed undesirable leaders to control politics

The Hoover commission evidently believes that Haiti should be given another chance at self government Our temporary occupation now fifteen years old is not popular There is little reason why it should be

But if it has served to arouse the more intelligent Haitians to a patriotic resolve to conduct a better government of their own it will not have been altogether in vain —Cleveland Plain Dealer

THE BIRD THAT LOVES US BEST

Though mindful of the place the robin holds in popular affection of all the birds that come into this latitude in season the song sparrow loves us best As we emerge from a bleak winter and the mind is given to thoughts of spring the heart or hope calls for a sign The song sparrow fulfils the need So small that he seems nearly all melody he is first to come and first to sing

The song sparrow is believed to be the best known most abundant and most widely distributed of all our birds Many of his species winter in northern states but the majority go far south We are not kept waiting longer than the first of March for the cheery notes of the song sparrow Nor rain nor snow nor wind can still his song He is not spectacular does not parade but mellows stays among the shrubbery tall weeds and vines before nature is wide awake which match the brown and gray of his feathers

Very musical are the song sparrow's notes Some of his brilliant measures resemble the canary's These he gives to God's world He reserves himself to his mate And what mate but could love so sweet a bird —Toledo Blade

'JUST CARELESS I GUESS'

When a local motorist was brought to court for running down two girls with his machine nearly killing one of them he admitted having gone ahead against the warning of a red light 'I don't know why I did it' he said 'I was just careless I guess

This manner of reckless driving and not that by drivers who are under the influence of drink is responsible for most of the traffic accidents in this and other cities It puts up to the courts a problem with which they hardly know how to deal. When there is evidence that crazy driving was deliberate or that drivers were on a drunken debauch the course of magistrates is clear Usually they feel free to impose the severest penalty provided by law It is then for which has surely come to grief but which pleads the excuse that it meant no harm that [illegible] ministers of justice Let the one as [illegible] wants the penalty but as the other and many [illegible] restrained by exemplary punishment It is their way to convince others that carelessness in driving creep with any harmful intent [illegible] not to be [illegible] and [illegible] be brought to the [illegible] —Akron Beacon Journal

I don't preach I observe I observe The whole thing is a state of mind A man can make himself miserable by feeling bad for himself A readjustment of his [illegible] attitude is the first requirement

One's more interesting learning personal reactions to his own condition of a bed ridden man than he is in learning what the man actually achieves for others How many of us shut off from our ways of activity could by an effort of the mind and will rearrange our lives [illegible] orderly and useful fashion as to pay in [illegible] and be reasonably happy?

Rare book collectors do well by worrying preserving some of the finer art in the world The most useful collectors of all are those who have books to lend and give away Pass on a book There may be an idea on each of within its covers

A Frenchman writing about America and Americans says we are a gentle delicate and sensitive people taken one by one but taken as a group an organization especially in business we are brutal Collectively we are hard Singly we are not Strange how intelligence and kindliness seem to grow less as the number of those who act together increases For example no one man will take another man out and hang him to a tree for his misdeeds Men acting together in what we call a mob will lynch without waiting for law to take its orderly course One man acting by himself, would not be likely to propose a silly and senseless law for the statute books of his state But when the members of a legislature get together many silly and senseless laws are proposed

The mob mind is the mind of a lower animal Rather the mob has no mind at all It has uncontrolled instinct

Tiredness is more in the mind than in the body The reason most of us complain of being tired is because we have let ourselves think about weariness We have come to expect it We have come to make a place for it in our lives Forgetting you are tired often brings you into a 'second wind' during which you can work hours without fatigue

No, the attorney agreed dryly, "I've often noticed how crossing it with a locomotive will improve a breed'

A New Planet.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON

On first looking Chapman's Homer like a poet, Keats was so enraptured with the pure serene of the Homeric firmament that he enthusiastically exclaimed

Then felt I like some watcher of the skies
When a new planet swims into his ken'

Some such emotion as this must have been felt by Dr V M Slipher and his associates of the Lowell observatory at Flagstaff Arizona when a new planet the ninth in the sun's retinue was sighted

The discovery announced on March 13 can not be said to have been unexpected by astronomers The probable presence of a planet or planets beyond Neptune has long been suspected However there seemed little likelihood of its discovery before 2131 when Neptune will have been observed for two revolutions Neptune's period is 164 years and the first observation was made in 1795 Its motion 105 years from now was confidently expected to determine positively the presence or absence of an external planet A transneptunian planet would easily [illegible] within the sun's gravitational influence but comets go out into space several hundred times the distance from the sun of Neptune and indeed a ninth planet might have existed anywhere in the zone where the sun's attraction exceeds the combined stellar attraction—which reaches as far as several hundred times the distance from sun to Neptune

The astronomer Gaillot long ago predicted that a planet more than twice as far from the sun as Neptune would be discovered The late Percival Lowell director of the observatory at Flagstaff suspected the existence of a planet distant from the sun about one and a half times the distance of Neptune This prophecy has proven extraordinarily accurate Neptune's 2 793 000 000 miles from the sun, so the new planet according to Lowell's calculation should be about 4 [illegible] 000 000 miles from the sun The present estimate of its distance from the sun is [illegible] five times the distance of the earth from the sun which is 93 000 000 miles This works out to 4 [illegible] 000 000 a verification to nine hundredths of one per cent

It is worthy of note that this transneptunian plane was not observed by Slipher in the conventional manner [illegible] in to be ken of the eye of a comparatively [illegible] camera with an extremely delicate [illegible] developed for the very purpose of detecting the new plane An image a mere pin-point of light showed up on the photographic plate on January 21 last The verification was complete

This is the most sensational discovery in astronomy since 1846, when Neptune was predicted by the calculations of Adams and Le Verrier and observed by Galle. The new planet is believed to be even bigger than Jupiter which is twelve hundred times the size of the earth. The mean diameter of the earth is 7 918 miles, while the mean diameter of Jupiter is 88,392 miles. Jupiter the largest of the eight planets, will now seem yield its supremacy to this [illegible] colossal new transneptunian planet.—Copyright 1930 International Features Service Inc.

Mellon serves out the ...he will have equalled ...Albert Gallatin ...seventh birthday ap...proaches Mellon has indicated no intention of retiring from the Hoover cabinet. At the beginning of the administration it appeared likely that Mellon would serve no more than a year and then, with most of the projects which he had inaugurated in the reconstruction period either completed or underway, he would retire to private life. Sometime ago, however, the White House issued a statement that Mellon would remain throughout the administration.

Has Busy Year

Mellon has had an extremely busy year since his last birthday. Among its outstanding events, so far as the treasury was concerned, was the recommendation for a one per cent reduction in the normal tax rates on individuals and corporations, which for 1929 incomes reduced the country's tax burden by $160,000,000.

Early in the year Mellon, as ex-officio chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, along with the rest of the administration became exercised over the orgy of stock speculation, fearing its effect on industry and commerce. As a result, the board with Mellon's approval took radical steps, both through heavy increases in the Federal Reserve rediscount rates, and through public statements, to divert capital from speculative to productive business channels. Subsequent events—the sensational rise in prices, followed by the dramatic crash in the market in October and November—proved the soundness of Mellon's position.

Another trying situation for Mr. Mellon and his subordinates during the last year has been the enforcement of the prohibition and customs laws. In 1929 came the unfortunate epidemic of killings by customs, prohibition and coast guardsmen which aroused national indignation. "Shot-gun enforcement" was roundly criticized in congress and elsewhere.

Mellon approved the plan to transfer the prohibition bureau from the treasury to the justice department, feeling that this phase of law enforcement rightly belonged under the attorney-general. Legislation is now pending to that end.

Helps Draft Plan

The unofficial part played by the U. S. government in the drafting of the new European reparations plan, and the organization of the new bank of International Settlements, likewise was of vital concern to Secretary Mellon. The American representatives who unofficially participated in the parleys at Paris, including Owen D. Young and J. P. Morgan, conferred at the Treasury before going abroad. The Federal Reserve Board permitted the resignation of Gates W. McGarrah, chairman of the board of the New York reserve bank, to become head of the International institution.

Mellon, along with the rest of the government, reiterated frequently that the International Bank was not linked with the United States. Nevertheless the close connection in actions—the bank was conceived by Americans, close to the administration, and will be directed by a man who was the Reserve Board's official representative in the New York district.

Made Many Reforms

During Mellon's term as secretary there have been many important fiscal reforms and accomplishments. Income taxes which were at a maximum of close to seventy per cent have been reduced to a maximum of 25 per cent for the highest brackets, although the government is collecting far more on the low rates. For the current year the majority of the taxpayers contribute less than one-half of one per cent to the Treasury.

Mellon, as chairman of the World War Debt Funding Commission, brought about a settlement of the War Debts, funded over sixty-two year period. Russia's debt alone remains unsettled.

An enormous building program has been launched during the Mellon regime, and many other changes made of lesser although vital importance.

Friends of the secretary say that he has enjoyed thoroughly his years at the head of the Treasury Department. It virtually was his first public office. Mellon for years having been the president of the Mellon National Bank, of Pittsburgh, and as such had little contact with the general public.

Dresbach Has New Book of Poetry

SOME delightfully readable poetry ... is to be found between the covers of Glen Ward Dresbach's new volume, "The Wind in the Cedars," published by Henry Holt & Co. Particularly do I like his picture of the last cowboy who "rides into the distance to hobble his bronco chaw to the sky and builds a fire." • • "The fire to embers burns down and wind in the cedar sings—And the last cowboy is asleep in legend with lovers and vagabonds and kings." A story of irony is to be found in his narrative, "Fifty Sacks of Corn," which the author counterparts in his story, "A Trace of Gold."

Dresbach, who is known in literary circles as the poet of the American Southwest, is a resident of Chicago, and is an expert accountant. He was born on a farm near Lanark, Ill., in 1889, is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin where he was editor-in-chief of the Wisconsin Magazine. He is a veteran of the World war. His "Star Dust & Stone," won the Publishing Award of the Poetry Society of Texas, last year. Mr. Dresbach is a close friend to Mr. and Mrs. George G. Kleinmaier, to whom he recently sent an autographed copy of his newest book of poetry.

O. W. U. Director Names Book List

INTEREST in so-called "better reading" is increasing greatly in the general public of today, Dr. Harlan T. Stetson, director of Perkins observatory at Ohio Wesleyan university believes. He points to the wide sale which scientific books for the general reader and other informational publications are now enjoying as ... of the economic pressure.

"The public seems to have become tired of fiction and to offer an ever-increasing demand for informational reading," Dr. Stetson declares. In choice among the recent scientific books of special interest and worth for the general reader, Dr. Stetson lists "The Art of Thinking," Ernest Dimnet; "The Master of Destiny," Frederick Tilney; "The Sciences and Philosophy," J. S. Haldane; "The Nature of the Physical World," A. S. Eddington; "A History of Science," C. D. Dampier-Whetham; "The New World of Physical Discovery," Floyd L. Darrow; "New Frontiers in Physics," Paul Rest; "The Universe Around Us," Sir James Jeans; "The Making of Chemistry," Floyd L. Darrow; "New Frontiers of the Machine," Michel Pupin; "Science and the New Civilization," Robert A. Millikan; "Modern Consulting Engineering," Hector MacPherson.

Young Author Has New Novel

WHEN tawny haired Sara Garnet first crept into Martin Tilney's eager arms she thought she had found shelter at last from the storms of a turbulent, worrying life. In the quiet balm of country life, as upstream of broad acres and green fields she sought peace from a harried, tawdry existence as an artist's model in a cruel indifferent city. As the honored wife of a man of wealth and position, she hoped for forgetfulness of the past, her past with Nils Hansen. And then she met Chris, charming, happy-go-lucky Chris, Leslie Thorpe's husband.

This is a hint of what is to be found in Mollie Painter-Downes "Storm Bird." Miss Painter-Downes wrote her first book, "The Chase," when she was 15 years of age. The present novel, with its unerring insight into a very delicate spiritual problem, shows that her earlier promise of brilliance has been realized to an astonishing degree.

Miss Stewart Publishes Book for Children

"THE Birds Began to Sing," by Anna Bird Stewart, is a volume of poems of song and motion. They also hold a large amount of very real information drawn from Miss Stewart's extensive knowledge of bird lore. There are seven divisions in the book among which are "Birds of Garden, Field and Wood," "Birds of Farmyard and Home," "Birds in Old Rhyme and Tale," "Birds of Prey," and "Birds of Fight." In the first group appear four favorites of Indian legend and a poem about St. Francis. The book is charming by Marjorie S. Johnson.

CHOPIN'S ROMANCE IS DRAMATIZED

THE story of the love affair of two outstanding artists of the nineteenth century, Frederic Chopin and Georges Sand, will be dramatized when the Famous Loves program is broadcast over the WJZ network Friday night, at 8:45 o'clock.

Georges Sand, the famous writer, whose real name was Aurore Dupin, spent her whole life protesting against accepted conventions and in affirming her belief that women were thinking individuals and not mere toys. She thought she wanted to live a strong man's life exclusively, lived with men, for her own will was too strong to be dominated by a man's. Consequently she was drawn to Frederic Chopin, composer-pianist, who was nervous, lonely and sensitive.

BANDITS SOUGHT

COLUMBUS, March 21—Two bandits, who, early last night swooped down upon the offices of the Donaldson Bakery Co. and escaped with $2,000 of the company's receipts for the day, after holding 10 employes at bay with revolvers, are being sought by police today. Approximately 150 persons were working in the bakery at the time of the holdup, but only a few were aware of what was occurring, until the bandits fled in a stolen automobile.

BALFOUR'S TRAGIC ROMANCE REVEALED

Lifelong Bachelorhood Traced to Death of Only Woman He Ever Loved.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 21—Tragic death of a maiden, the only woman he ever loved, just before presentation of the two was made by the Daily Mail today to have motivated Lord Balfour's lifelong bachelorhood, ended at Woodcroft with his death at the age of 81.

The Mail, which said its information came from a close friend of the aged statesman, explained that when Balfour was about 27 years old he fell in love with the honorable Miss Lyttelton, sister of the late Viscount Cobham. He bought a ring to seal the engagement between them but she died suddenly while he was on his way to present it.

In after years the earl never referred to his engagement and when asked why he did not marry always turned the question away lightly. The Mail said that once, however, he told a friend he had not married because in early life he proposed to have a career of his own.

"But would marriage have made a great difference?" he was asked. He replied: "It would have made a great difference. I think of the clutter of things about the house."

Lord Balfour's body was dispatched last night for Woking, Surrey, Scotland, for burial.

PROBE JEWELRY THEFT

COLUMBUS, O., March 21—With the report of the theft of $8,200 in stock certificates and jewelry from a North Side home, police today started to solve the robbery even though they worked without clews. Mrs. Lucy Howison found that her iron safe had been looted when she returned home from work early yesterday evening.

We're interested in Europe, perhaps, more than we need be.

If it had been mentioned to him, Kellogg would have been angered. There was, he knew, some solution, some answer to it all, and he was still endeavoring to figure out what it might be. And—increasingly horrible notion—what he could do if Craig might not be in New York when the telegram finally arrived. Suppose Kellogg was rushed to trial, found guilty, and sent to the penitentiary! What then? Suppose . . . lower and lower Kellogg's heart sank, for all he knew that he was innocent. At the end, the outward picture of dejection, he sat with his head in his hands.

"En la horca . . . En la Horca . . ." the little Mexican was whispering; at last Kellogg realized that, here with him in the cell, was starker tragedy than his own, although he did not know that his companion saw the gallows and the 13 steps leading up to it already confronting him.

"Cheer up, old man," John Andrew said gently.

The Mexican shrugged the words away, but, immediately, smiled with a flash of white teeth, and rolled two more cigarets.

John Andrew was smoking one of them when he was led from the cell-block and through lighted corridors to a small, glassed-in room. His head lifted, but his lips became tight when he saw that Anne and Fitzgerald, the youthful Consolidated engineer, were waiting there for him.

"I never used the company drag before," Fitzgerald said at once—Anne's eyes were on the bare floor—"and I wouldn't use it now, Kellogg, but we want that noiseless camera, and so we pulled a couple of wires and they let us in to see you. Met Miss Ames here. They wouldn't let her in at all. And they don't know who she is...now, how does the camera business stand, and how in the devil did you let yourself in for such a mess?"

John Andrew, instead of answering, said to Anne's bowed head, "Think I'm guilty?" He wanted to say it harshly, accusingly, but the words were only pleasing.

The girl's eyes lifted. "I didn't think at all," she said monotonously. "I just came."

Still not answering the engineer, Kellogg went on, "I don't understand what's happened. The car was paid for by check. The check was—must have been—good. And——"

Anne looked directly at him; John Andrew never so much as winked. She made a tiny, painful noise in her throat, and looked away again. John Andrew gulped misery, but said nothing; what was there for him to say?

"Getting down to facts," Fitzgerald said soberly, "what's the status of the camera proposition? If we can get things signed up quickly, you can straighten this mess out by...er ...making the check good, and all that sort of thing——"

"Thanks——"

"This's business," said the young expert; "aside from the camera"—winking at Kellogg—"you can stay in jail for life, so far as we care."

"How much"—Anne's voice, although she did not look up—"will it take to—to—make the check good?"

John Andrew sighed; he said, "Neither you nor any one else can make it good, Anne. It never was bad...as for the camera"—to Fitzgerald—"my partner wired for money; it was in the agreement that I had to furnish whatever amount he needed, and I intended selling the arc to raise it. The automobile company here wired San Francisco...and then the fun began."

"Figured you'd get the deal closed, and have the money we paid you in the bank before the check went through?" Fitzgerald asked.

"It's a good idea," admitted John Andrew, "but I hadn't intended to do it that way. The money was in the bank. Or should have been."

"Got a long wire from our Frisco office, Kellogg. This Blake partner of yours has hired attorneys. Wise guys. Do you cut of your share, if they can. They——"

John Andrew was done with subtleties: "I intended giving the old man the whole amount," he said; "all I wanted was to be able to say I'd made some money, and—"

Anne's eyes came up to his again; she bit her lip, but nevertheless said, "O, John Andrew . . . I'd forgiven you buying the car as you did, because of what you wanted to do with it. And"—speaking to Fitzgerald would not understand—"Japanese valets. The Canadian Rockies. Millions. But . . . now you're in jail!"

Kellogg could see, all too clearly, what the girl was thinking. What a tremendous bluff she must think him. And, more, crook. Notwithstanding all this, a little smile—the first in hours—made Kellogg's lips twitch.

"I'm in jail," he said.

"We'll get you out," Anne said vehemently. "Consolidated . . . the film-tracks can't get my voice on them, but they've paid me for a whole month, and I can pay for the Mercury out of it, and——"

"And the important thing is, how soon can Consolidated get the camera?" Fitzgerald interrupted.

Again the engineer was left unanswered. "What happened?" Kellogg demanded of the girl.

"Science's made a flop," the technician said, before Anne could speak. "On the discs, her voice records perfectly, but something happens when we put it on film. I don't know what; neither do any of the other boys."

Kellogg forgot where he was, and why. The earlier smile became broader, and he said easily, "Well, it looks as if I'll need to look after you."

Anne stared at him, and John Andrew flushed warmly.

"Getting back to the camera, Kellogg. I've wired our people in the north that we hold your signature. Rake's attorneys are trying to hold us up, of course. Gun at the head. The price we agreed upon isn't only fair, it's every penny the apparatus is worth. I told you that. If these shysters can get you out of the picture, they figure it will be clear sailing." He stared before him a moment, and then said, "I think I'll take a little gamble. Suppose I send the money to Blake myself . . . how much is it? Five hundred? I'll send it, and that cinches the camera for us. Why in hell didn't you come to me with the story instead of sellin' the car, man?"

"You mean you'd have let me have five hundred?"

"I wouldn't have given you a dime, except to get the Blake-Kellogg. That is . . . well——"

John Andrew did not grin now at all, nor did he smile.

"There is a little Mexican, who doesn't know a word of English, in my cell," he said quietly. "When I was put in there, he tried to talk to me, but naturally I didn't understand him. And so he rolled cigarets for me. Poor little devil . . . but trying to be kind. And now you——"

Love's Reawakening

A Wife's Triumph Over Jealousy

BY ADELE GARRISON

The Drama of Robert's Farewell

I TURNED swiftly away from Robert Savarin's bedside as I saw the sick man's arms go out to Lillian and heard his hoarse little cry of "Lillian, my love!" This last meeting of the dying artist and the woman he had loved so long and so hopelessly was too sacred for our eyes to witness. But before I could turn I had seen Lillian drop to her knees by the bed, his arms encircling her. And as I was going through the door I heard the sick man's voice in an ecstatic murmur:

"And you wore that dress for me—the dress I love so well. Oh, my dearest! I——"

The closing door put a period to his words, and the nurse, who was standing in the hall, turned to me.

"He is all right—so far?" she asked.

"As far as I could determine," I answered. "His voice was stronger than when I was here a minute ago and he seemed more animated."

"Then I am sure everything will be all right at any rate, while Mrs. Underwood is here," she said with distinct relief in her tones. "It was the first moment of seeing her which I feared. That passed safely, her visit will do him more good than harm."

"You cannot mean a permanent good?" I asked incredulously.

"Oh, no," she returned gravely. "The end is inevitable shortly of course. But this visit may make it a matter of two or three weeks, when we have been estimating it in terms of days or even hours. There is great stimulation in——Will you be outside here within call while she is in there?"

"Take Care of Her!"

I guessed the word "happiness" which she had left unuttered, and the reason for her request.

"Yes," I answered, making my voice cordial. "I shall stay right here."

"Then I will go downstairs, if you do not mind," she said. "But I shall be within hearing."

"I do not mind in the least," I answered her, "and I can promise you——"

She nodded [illegible] and I went into the room, to see Robert Savarin beckoning me. Patiently he had changed his mind about not seeing me again. As I reached the bed he smiled up at me with a look so filled with eerie unearthly happiness that I involuntarily shivered, and gestured toward Lillian, who was standing now, with her right hand prisoned in both his.

"Take care of her," he whispered to me, as he lifted her hand and laid it in mine. "And remember!"

But he did not look at me as he spoke the words. His eyes were fixed steadfastly upon Lillian's face, although he spoke no word of adieu to her, and then he wrenched them away from her living face and rested them upon the portrait which he had painted from memory, and which stood, as he had written her, at the foot of his bed, where it was never out of the range of his vision.

Only one more word came from between his parched lips. It was uttered explosively:

"Hurry!" And a side glance at Lillian's pallid face showed me the reason for his mandate. There was a choking in my throat as I obeyed him, and led Lillian firmly from the room, my arm around her. For I had seen plainly that Robert Savarin had deliberately cut short these last few minutes of bliss accorded him because he had realized how the interview was ravaging the soul of the woman he loved.

That the realization had also penetrated Lillian's consciousness I knew when at the door her body stiffened and she tore herself away from my arm with a little cry and ran back to him.

"No, no, not yet, Robert, not this way," she said softly, and then I saw her bend her face to his and knew, though I hurried out of the room with averted eyes, that their lips had met in a long kiss of [illegible]

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

FRIDAY The last day of school this week. When I let Jubilee out it was cool and hammy and has been all day, and my grandfather told my mother when I was feeding my hens that she could put some lard in the pan tomorrow because he was going to bring her the finest mess of fish she ever saw, and my ant eggs are about fat enough a pound and he better get make any fish promises, but he only glared at her and then he asked me if I wanted to go fishing with him, and I said much he I would. Then my father said there was no maybe about it. He said for me to get my own done early and go with my grandfather, so now I have got to go and watch him fish whether I want to or not.

We have not made up our mind about the canoe since the plank broke. Banty said if we could get a tank he would do a high dive from the top of our barn, and Maggie said he knew we couldn't get a tank so he was just talking to hear his brains rattle. We might train our dogs and make them perform but dogs are hard to train. I told them we could make Jubilee take hold of a rope with his teeth and we'd pull him half way up the barn and he'd hang there all day for an advertisement, but Feeble said that would be cruel, but she said I was cruel anyway. I asked her if Jubilee wasn't my dog. Banty was all strong for the tank act, and he said if we would go out to the back of the pourch use to the old gymnasium after school he would show us how to dive in and swim. So after school our boys and a lot of the other kids that wanted to see him do it went out there. You-mas told him not to when he started to climb up the tree, and he looked at the high limb and he he he! at the cold water, and it looked like he had been waiting for someone to say him not to, so he told me all right if she didn't want him to he wouldn't. So we all began to scream him then and he told us to mind her own business and he climbed on the tree and went out on the limb hanging onto the limb with a k knees and bobbing. There grew methods and he dove a fine into the water right near the place where it wasn't any rocks that I know of, and he hit that with a big splash, and the water was so cold he couldn't breathe. He wanted to know what we thought of that, so we got mad and we all held our noses with one hand and fanned ourselves with the other, and Feeble stuck out her tongue at me and Banty walked all the way back with the girls because Ines said he was brave. Whites out of the mail as much brains as courage he would be almost half witted. He certainly was mad.

"But there has been suspicion People have been thinking things I want it to come out now let them put me on the stand I will tell what I know, I will see if lies will stand up over the truth"

District Attorney Guy B Moore declined to comment on the alleged accusations until he had acquainted himself with full details

The trial entered its third day today with eight jurors selected Prospects were that the jury would be completed before adjournment today but that the taking of testimony would not start before Monday

Police Facing Tough Job

How To Corral Bees for Return to Owner Baffles Evanston Officers

By the Associated Press

EVANSTON, Ill., March 21—Anyone well versed on the psychology of the bee would have no difficulty at all getting on the Evanston police force, at least temporarily.

The police have quite a problem in A. E. De Wolf's bees and they need help. They were called into the case last night by De Wolf, who breathlessly informed them his bees had been stolen.

Theft, even of bees, being one of the things that is not tolerated in Evanston, the police hurried to the scene. It did not take them long to discover the insects in a neighbor's barn. They learned at the same time that the bees were there at no invitation on the part of the neighbor. In fact he was as insistent on De Wolf that they be returned to their rightful owner.

* * *

THERE is only one thing to do, and the officers did it. They charged the barn but retreated almost immediately. The bees had no intention of evacuating their new quarters and they said so with stings.

The police called a truce but they still faced the problem today.

The officers, at least those who made the call last night, favor strategy over the usual police methods. They are very anxious to find out just what it is that makes a bee leave home, and what is more to the point, what it is that will induce him to return.

INDIAN HOPES REST ON LEW FONSECA

CLEVELAND SLUGGER IN POOR CONDITION

Peckinpaugh Grooming Rookies for First Base; Former Yale Star May Get Post.

This is the fourteenth of a series by International News Service sports writers visiting the training camps of major league baseball clubs.

BY DAN TAYLOR

NEW ORLEANS, La March 21—The success or failure of the fall club Roger Peckinpaugh will place upon the field as the American league representative of Cleveland this year is expected to depend largely on the physical condition of Lew Fonseca hard hitting first baseman who led the American league in batting a year ago and the luck Peck has in locating a major league shortstop from among five youngsters trying out for that job

Aside from those two positions Peck will start the 1930 campaign with exactly the same team that came thundering down the home stretch a year ago in third place

Fonseca may hold the key to the entire situation He was the most valuable man on the squad last year and big things were expected of him again this season But Lew was taken ill during the winter with scarlet fever and he did not recuperate as rapidly as expected

Because of his weakened condition he was sent to a desert resort in California to take a series of sun baths and was two weeks late in reporting. He looked to be in robust health when he joined his teammates here but he has not been called upon to exert himself and there still is some doubt as to whether he will be ready to open the season

Three Good Rookies

Peck has three very likely prospects for first base in the event Fonseca can't perform but none of them are expected to come close to filling Lew's shoes They are Zeke Bonura formerly with New Orleans, who looks at spots for all the world like Lou Gehrig of the Yankees, Bruce Caldwell the ex Yale football star who turned up the Eastern league with his hitting last year and Alex Hooks a flashy fielder purchased from Terre Haute in the Three I league

There are five youngsters battling for the shortstop berth with Carl Lind, a sensation with the Indians at second base two years ago, but who was all most of last season, the first choice. He has three close rivals in Johnny Goldman, steady the best fielder of the lot but a fair who has not shown much ability to hit John ny Burnett a left handed hitter who clouts fairly well and Ray Gardner who split the shortstopping honors with Jackie Tavener, now released for the Indians last year Tony Piet the other candidate, is hardly ready yet

Johnny Hodapp, who flopped at third and first before he finally made good at second base in midseason last year, is a certainty to start at the keystone sack and Joe Sewell moved over from short to third last spring will again guard the hot corner The catching duties again will be shared by Luke Sewell and Glenn Myatt and the outfield will be made up of Bib Falk, in left, Earl Averill in center and Dick Porter in right.

Six .300 Hitters

That means, especially if Fonseca is able to play, that Cleveland will present a healthy-hitting team for they will have six men in the lineup every day who can hit better than .300 Fonseca clubbed .369 last year, Averill .370 Porter .29 Hodapp .327, Joe Sewell .315 and Falk .310

Among the rookie hurlers are Clint Brown, a tall, husky young fellow who won 21 games for New Orleans last year, Pete Jablonowski who won 18 and lost 12 games for Columbus in the American Association last year Milburn Shoffner who in his only start last fall for the Indians shut out the Washington Senators for eight innings Mel Harder, a 20 year old youngster Leslie Barnhart purchased from Terre Haute in the three I league and Belve Bean, with New Orleans last year

The regular pitchers of last year who will be back are Wesley Ferrell who won 21 games and lost only 10 in his first year in the big leagues Willis Hudlin and Ben Holloway right handers and Joe Shaute and Walter Miller southpaws.

Spare outfielders are expected to be Eddie Morgan who batted .318 with the Indians last year Charley Jamieson the old reliable and either Johnny Gill who led the Eastern league in batting last year with a mark of .377 or Bob Seeds who hit .317 for Kansas City in the Western league

STIVERS READY FOR DEFENSE OF TITLE

Zanesville Favored To Play in Finals To Decide State Scholastic Championship.

BY LATHROP MACK

Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS March 21—Stivers High school of Dayton perennial basketball champions of the state, returns to the scene of its former conquests today ready to rubber stamp the tournament with the old gang of its supremacy

A champion seven times in the last 14 years the only school which has won more than two titles the orange crushers from Dayton hopes to make it three championships in a row and thus equal a record Stivers set between 1910 and 1921

The eighth annual tournament of the Ohio High School Athletic association although state championships have been decided since 1906 was ready for semi finals here will first round games in both Class A and B this afternoon and tonight semi finals tomorrow afternoon and finals tomorrow night

Class B Games

Fifth High school of Youngstown and Carrollton High school two Class B teams drew the spotlight for the opening game at 1 p m Fremont and North High of Columbus were the first schools drawn in the Class A pairings, with East High of Akron and Zanesville following them

Four hard games were predicted in the first round as all contenders seemed well matched but if that guess is correct the semi finals probably will not develop much leaving the winners comparatively fresh for the final game However if an upset occurs as is always likely, new estimates must be made

St Mary's High school of Akron being ineligible for membership in the state association this year because its coach is not connected with its faculty did not defend its 1929 Class B championship The Class B tournament appeared to be a free for all although Rawson was beaten by Fifth Ward Junior High for the northwest district title last week and Fitch of Youngstown lost to Brush High school of South Euclid in the northeast Lancaster St Mary's and Carrollton looked like the best of the other teams

WALSH SAYS BOXING IN TERRIBLE STATE

Modern Flyweights Not Even Shadow of Former Fighters, Avers Writer.

BY DAVIS J WALSH

NEW YORK, March 21—Old timers who revelled on a glowing past that knew Barry Coulon Jimmy Wilde and Pancho Villa will gaze sadly tonight upon the effigy of the thing that was professional boxing and promptly commit the remainder of their days to intercollegiate fencing Unfortunately the old timers left are all too few—only new timers and two timers—and so tonight, like a poor relation at Sunday dinner, it has been found necessary to hide a so-called world's flyweight championship bout behind the main event at Madison Square Garden

They will pay off with the flyweight title in at least three states to the winner of the Midget Wolgast Black Bill fight of fifteen rounds but actually it is only an added starter in the program tonight a garnish of the meal to be It can't pull its own weight Therefore it is dropped in behind the Al Ridgway Kid Chocolate final much in the way that one discards beer to drink behind the chaser of champagne

It was only a few years ago that Villa was packing the ball parks with Jimmy Wilde and Johnny Buff a selling the garden from ringside to rafter for his meetings with Frankie Genaro.

Oldtimers Through

But Villa is dead, Barry and Coulon long since passed from view, Buff was through eight years ago and Wilde never fought again after his defeat by Villa in 1924 Apparently the fans joined these men to green peas and then broke the mold

No other assumption seems tenable in view of the fact that Genaro hardly half the man he used to be, is still good enough, by the measure of modern comparisons, to be recognized as champion of the class by the national boxing association He was first champion of the title not less than five years ago by Fidel LaBarba the last of the good flyweights, yet he continues to survive on the strength of a hang over' from the speed he used to know

Wolgast and Black Bill at least have something that Genaro hasn't and never again will have, namely youth but it is a moot point whether either of them could beat him They are just fair 'country fighters Wolgast being something of a ring m unicbank and Black Bill some of a bar room fighter They wouldn't have gone three rounds with Barry and as for Coulon, he would have pecked their eyes out in the first few minutes of play

Villa probably would have stopped either or both of them so doubtless would the old Kid Williams who really was a flyweight when he won the bantam championship They would have been a kick in the game for Wilde and men like LaBarba Buff and the Genaro of six years ago would have had too much general class for them

In fact, if Speed Dado is half the man they say he is he ought to be better than either of the men pair which leaves tonight's enterprise with hardly a leg under it Indeed it seems to be just what they have made it—a semi final on a $5 bow and a fitting commentary on the decadence of modern boxing

Cheese-Cake Is Popular as Dessert for Luncheon

FOR that light luncheon or supper of a Sunday night, present Cheese-cake as dessert. It's a very substantial dessert—almost a meal in itself if made the regular way. And it's a favorite dish with a great many men, judging by the frequency with which it appears on the menus of business men's lunching places. Yet, it is not always what it should be—light, fluffy, on a crisp crust. And if it's less than that, it deserves the mean things said about its indigestibility.

To insure good results, several items must be carefully observed. Ingredients must be measured carefully—and they must be of the best. Heat must be watched. Cheese-cake is baked like a custard, and should not be subjected to too intense heat—a quite low temperature is the best.

As far as crust is concerned, it is very difficult to use an ordinary pie-crust and prevent it from getting soggy. Wherefore the other alternative is preferable—no raw pastry, but a foundation which is already cooked. Stale cake or crackers or, better still, zwieback can be rolled to fine crumbs. Mixed with butter and sugar and rolled on the bottom of the pan, they are a finished foundation, and will not have the raw taste one sometimes feels in cheese-cake on pastry crusts.

Also, consider the tin in which the cake is baked. Either it should be a good-looking fire-proof dish which can be presented at table, or a tin plate with a spring mold, which can easily be slipped off after the cake is baked. Good cheese-cake is as light as a souffle, and it cannot be handled much after baking without the risk of breaking its attractive shape.

Cream Cheese Cake

1 pound cream cheese.
1 cup sweet cream
1 cup sugar.
4 eggs.
2 tablespoons flour.
2 tablespoons butter.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
Dash of salt.
1 dozen zwieback.
If zwieback are not available, graham crackers, or any other crackers can be rolled into fine crumbs and used, to make I cupful

Mix together the crumbs two tablespoons of butter and if it seems two tablespoons of sugar. This depends on whether sweet or unsweetened crumbs are used. Place this mixture on the bottom and sides of the baking pan.

Place cream cheese, sugar and flour in a large bowl and mix together. Separate the eggs and add one yolk at a time to the cheese mixture, beating constantly. Then add cream, salt and vanilla, and finally fold in the stiffly beaten egg-whites. Pour this mixture over the crumbs in the pan and bake in a moderate oven for 1 hour.

MILK GIVEN PUPILS IN CITY SCHOOLS

...ss Cross Nutritionist in ...arge of Work with Underweight Children.

...t pupils at 11 Marion ... now being given a light ...day in the form of a ...k. Miss Esther Tress, ...utritionist, said today. ... lunch is being confined to pupils who are 10 per cent or more underweight. In some schools the milk is given the pupils at the morning recess hour, at others in the afternoon.

"Milk is not a perfect food, but it contains more real nourishment than any other food obtainable at its price," Miss Tress said. "Then, too, most of the underweight children do not receive sufficient food, and this defect is partially remedied."

Underweight children at Silver Street and Forest Lawn schools get their glass of milk at the morning recess. At Davids, Olney, Oak, Greenwood, Vernon Heights, North State, North Main and Mark sts., the milk is given them in the afternoon. Glenwood school is to be added to the list Monday, making a total of 12 schools on the milk list.

Constipation has been truly described as the curse of modern life. Its poisons cause countless ills—headaches, listlessness, indigestion—often serious disease.

Yet it can be relieved and prevented in an easy, pleasant, natural way. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, eaten daily, is guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. It adds the roughage to your diet that sweeps the system clean of all waste and insures regular elimination.

This delicious ready-to-eat cereal also helps prevent and relieve anemia. Scientific research shows that it is rich in iron—nearly all of which is absorbed, building red blood and bringing the glorious color of health to the complexion.

Isn't it much wiser to relieve constipation with this healthful cereal than to take pills and drugs that only give temporary help and are often dangerous?

Be sure to add Kellogg's ALL-BRAN to any reducing diet. Doctors recommend it.

If you wish to bid goodbye forever to constipation and its companion physical troubles, just begin eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Your grocer has it. It is served everywhere—in restaurants, hotels and dining-cars. With cream or milk is one popular way to eat it. When sprinkled over cereals or soups, it adds flavor, as in cooked foods. Soak it in fruit juice. What ever the style of eating, it is equally effective. In the red-and-green package—made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

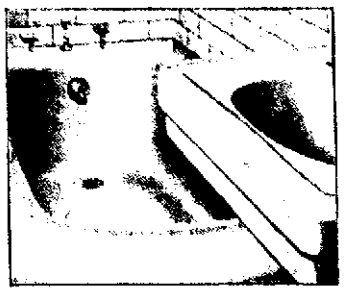
NEW THINGS OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

"My Bathroom Gleams Snow-White"



"My Hands Are Like A Debutante's"

To Make Porcelain Sparkle Without Scrubbing

SPARKLING porcelain and gleaming white tubs are as much a mark of social knowledge as good manners.

To have them—always snow-white and clean—and, at the same time for the housewife to have caressing, white hands is a problem that has now been solved an interesting, new way.

Use any kind of soap, soap powder or soap flakes, in washing bath fixtures. But add a teaspoon of CLIMALENE to the water.

This enables you to use ONE-FOURTH the usual quantity of soap. For it softens the water instantly, so that far less soap is needed.

Or, if you prefer, simply sprinkle CLIMALENE in dry form over the tub, then rub with a damp cloth.

Being a GREASE SOLVENT in itself, it DISSOLVES grease instantly; and eliminates ALL FILM or stain from porcelain. Makes it gleam like purest snow.

Containing superlative SKIN WHITENING and SKIN SOFTENING ingredients—used by scores of beauty specialists—it leaves the hands soft and lovely beyond words.

Women are flocking to it. It costs only a dime at grocers. Try it. Just ask for Climalene.

Business System Helps in Kitchen Management

THE telephone bell rang, and after the usual pleasantries came the flattering request. "What I really called up was the recipe for that marvelous orange sauce you served with the lamb the other night when we were over for dinner." But, alas, the housekeeper, though pleased with the compliment, couldn't give the information. She was one of those excellent but temperamental cooks who never follow a printed recipe exactly as given. Always she makes little changes, because it isn't her nature to be absolutely accurate. Sometimes the changes are disastrous. But there are also times when they turn out marvelously well. This was one of the occasions. But for the life of her she can't remember what she's done, nor has she been known to repeat any result.

Every housekeeper, of course, invents little helps of her own as emergencies arise. And if every housekeeper kept a record of her experiments and ideas she could save herself a tremendous amount of trouble from time to time. Perhaps it's a way of cleaning, or of removing a stain, or new ways of using old foods to save time and trouble—and, of course, the recipes that one hears of, reads of, or creates are simply legion. There is no use depending on memory, nor, indeed, is there any reason why one should try to remember all the thousand and one bits of household information that may come in handy.

The right hand of the woman who does her own housekeeping is a little bit of business method in the kitchen. All that is necessary is a box and some cards to fit—and these may now be purchased for a few cents. What captions are to be used is for each one to decide. Some will find recipes pertaining to the different meals most dominating; others ideas for entertaining, for cleaning, for child care. There's nothing difficult or formidable about keeping a business record. Anyone can do it.

First, decide on the captions, and these are arranged on thick guide cards, with the name printed on top—"Meats," "Cleaning Hints," "Laundry," "Desserts," "Entertaining" and so on. Of course, they are arranged alphabetically. And if "Recipes" are likely to be abundant then they may have a separate division of their own, beginning with "Breads," "Cakes," and so on through to "Vegetables."

Second, get plenty of the three by five cards to fit. Printed suggestions in newspapers and magazines are easy to snip and paste on the cards—after you have tried them and are sure they will have a permanent usefulness. To clip and paste up everything that looks interesting might fill the filing box too fast. Each housekeeper will find most helpful that selection of suggestions which have proved satisfactory in her own particular case by at least one trial.

PASTOR IS HERO

Locomotive Nicks Coat as He Rescues Woman from Railway Track

By the Associated Press

BARNESVILLE, O., March 21—The Rev. W. H. Patterson, of Akron, was discussed today by victims of speeding locomotives bearing down upon him and ready at the next instant to hit his automobile and kill its occupants.

He had the satisfaction, however, of knowing that he and the other occupants of the car are safe and that he is a hero.

The automobile stalled on Chestnut crossing, out of gasoline. As a Baltimore & Ohio passenger train approached he pushed the car off, but he had to run back and carry off a woman occupant who had fallen on the track in her haste to jump out. The locomotive flecked his coat tail.

Local Recruiting Officer Reports Two Enlistments

Thomas O. Showers, local recruiting officer, reports the enlistment of Paul Howard Dice and Charles Albert Griffith. Dice is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Levi Dice, residing in Caledonia. Griffith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Albert Griffith, Mansfield.

Dice and Griffith left Cincinnati last night for the naval training station at Great Lakes, Ill., where they will enter upon a nine weeks' recruit training period. On graduation from this training period, they will be granted 12 days leave of absence to visit their parents. At the expiration of this leave, they will return to the naval training station and will either enter one of the trade schools or will go direct to a sea-going vessel, as they choose.

PROFESSOR LAUDS EFFICIENCY

A questionnaire asking their opinion of chain stores was sent to 45 prominent university professors; 43 of them answered. Every one of the 43 replied that he considered the chain store to the interest of the public.

E. G. Rasmussen, Instructor in Marketing, Vanderbilt University, cites the efficiency of the chain-store method. He says:

"Economies are brought about largely through large-scale buying. . . . Its advantage is due to large-scale economies and efficiency in management."

Professor Rasmussen thus emphasizes the reasons the chain-store system is a benefit.

Kroger Stores employ these principles in their operation—large-scale buying, quick handling and efficient management. These economies are passed on to the public.

JOHNSON'S FLOOR WAX

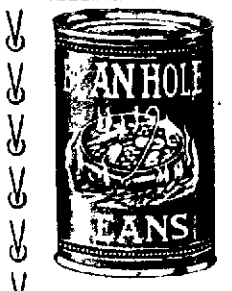
The Stars Say—

For Friday, March 21.

A DAY of unusual complicated and probably sensational occurrences are forecast by the mutual planetary aspects, but not an entirely unprofitable one Much depends on the circumspect and cautious handling of the peculiar situations as they arise Sign all writings with precaution

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of unusual and perplexing unfoldment of events With extreme precaution and sound judgment there may be gainful and satisfactory developments

A child born on this day may be brilliant ambitious and spectacular but may lean toward trickery or shrewdness.



Layers of Choice Beans
A Layer of Pork
A Cup of Brown Sugar
A Cup of Molasses

—the recipe for the famous "bean hole" beans of the North Woods Sealed with these flavor-rich ingredients, the big bean pot was buried through the night in glowing embers to give the best and most delicious beans ever known. And now the same "outdoor" flavor and recipe is reproduced by modern, sanitary cooking under the watchful eyes of food experts in a million dollar kitchen to give you Bean Hole Beans Start tonight—use them often. Your grocer has them.

Taste Tells You!

If you want the best and purest of all Evaporated Milks, try Van Camp's. Here is not only the rich, creamy goodness of the whole milk but besides using it for every cooking purpose, it is best for coffee and breakfast foods Get the richest, purest, creamiest Evaporated Milk—"Van Camp's—of course!"

Kroger STORES

PROFESSOR LAUDS EFFICIENCY

A questionnaire asking their opinion of chain stores was sent to 45 prominent university professors, 43 of them answered Every one of the 43 replied that he considered the chain store to the interest of the public

E G Rasmussen Instructor in Marketing Vanderbilt University, cites the efficiency of the chain store method He says

"Economies are brought about largely through large-scale buying Its advantage is due to large-scale economies and efficiency in management"

Professor Rasmussen thus emphasizes the reasons the chain store system is a benefit

Kroger Stores employ these principles in their operation—large-scale buying, quick handling and efficient management These economies are passed on to the public

Favorites Reach Highest Price Level of Year

CALL MONEY RATE BOOSTED

Clash of Bulls and Bears Boosts Some to New Levels, Lowers Others.

NEW YORK, March 21—Drivers of a feverish pace by the clashing of bullish and bearish forces on the big board today, the favorite industrial and motor stocks reached the highest price levels of the year in a heavy turnover. The feats meanwhile hammered the "weak spots" that have been developing in the last week or two, notably issues of National Cash Register, Montgomery Ward and other of last year's blue chips to new low levels.

The feast of cheap call money was brought to a sudden halt by the raising of the rate to 4 per cent in the early afternoon. The banks called in about $100,000,000 from the call market and the "loose money" awaiting income tax payments disappeared from the scene.

With more than a million shares changing hands each hour, the market again felt the weight of the overload, and the ticker fell behind 30 minutes.

United States Steel sold at 190 for the first time this year, up 3¾, but lost the bulk of its new advance. General Motors and Chrysler were in active demand. Chrysler moving up to 41 in an unusually heavy turnover. Westinghouse was a favorite above 100. United Carbon jumped 10 points to 72.

Firmer Money Trend Eases Bond Demand

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 21—Tendencies toward firmer money resulted in a less avid demand for bonds today, although the pace of the market was still brisk and well above the average for the past year.

Small fractional losers scattered through the list in the early trading reflected the effect on inquiry of the three percent call money renewal rate and the subsequent boost in the rate to four. There was also a little profit taking in speculative holdings which had profited to a considerable extent by the phenomenal rise of the current week.

However, plenty of money was still seeking employment in bonds and offerings were well taken. Investment rails and utilities held firm, but some of the low priced industrials met with selling. A feature of the day was the strength of American Telephone convertible 4½s, which touched the new 1930 high of 108 as the stock went to record ground for the year. The company's debenture 5s of 1965 was very active just under its high. Pacific Telephone first 5s, which had been rather quiet caught up with bonds of the same grade by rising more than a point to 103.

* * *

Professionals Active in Curb Operations

NEW YORK, March 21—Professional operations for the advance were pressed forward with vigor in today's curb market, but a firming up in the call money market prompted early profit taking which turned the course of prices irregular. Several of the industrials and oils were bid up rapidly.

The petroleum group was featured by strength of the Standards. Standard of Ohio jumped about 3 points to a new high and Humble Oil and Standard of Kansas sold up a point or so, the latter to new high ground. Indian territory was neat, but Cities Service eased.

American Chain was a feature of the industrials. Sponsors of this stock point out that current earnings are running considerably ahead of this year's and the shares rose about a point to a new peak at 60, but encountered considerable profit taking at the top.

CITY PAYS FARE

Miami Publicity Money Appropriated To Send Contestants Home

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, March 21—More than 40 American girls who participated in the recent Miami beauty pageant were on their way home today—thanks to a special meeting of the city commissioners which produced their railroad fares.

The commissioners, told that the pageant association had an indebtedness of $24,734, appropriated $4,000 from the city's publicity fund to help the girls get out of the city.

Some of the 40 or more girls had prize money due them and others had been unable to collect traveling expenses from the pageant association.

Among bills unpaid, the council was told, was one for $8,910.58 for railroad transportation.

One with a jealous disposition should be careful not to cast stones for anybody.

WHEAT PRICES ON NEW CLIMB

Crop Complaints in Ohio, Rains in Southwest Are Bullish Factors.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 21—Brisk new sources of wheat sales here [illegible] to a [illegible] and Buenos Aires Reduction of Argentine wheat acreages [illegible] dearth of offers in the American southwest caused prices to [illegible] cent. Opening [illegible] Chicago wheat futures scored additional gains later. Crop complaints in Ohio, where [illegible] parcel with yesterday's [illegible]

A new general buying demand showed itself most of the time in the wheat futures market, with sellers comparatively scarce, until July went above $1.10. At that price commission houses had increased selling orders. Meanwhile Argentine wheat exports for the week were announced as only 1,470,000 against 8,121,000 for the corresponding week a year ago. In addition some central and northern Ohio points reported wheat growing conditions bad and advices of severe winter killing persisted from southern Illinois and Indiana.

Kansas dispatches today said moderate freezes had been favorable as a help in thinning out fields slightly and checking too advanced growth, the [illegible] on the other hand, fears were expressed that the cold snap might prove to have been a severe shock from which recovery of wheat southwest would be slow. Estimates were current that overnight export business in North America had totaled 1,000,000 bu., mostly wheat purchased from the Canadian growers pool.

COURT GRANTS CUT IN JURY JUDGMENT

Judge Scofield Reduces Amount Returned in Verdict Against Railway Company.

A remittitur of $6140 was granted yesterday by Judge George B. Scofield in common pleas court in the case of Clarence Brown vs. the Columbus Marion & Fairview Railway Co. and the city of Marion.

A jury last week rendered a judgment of $150 for the plaintiff who alleged his automobile had been damaged to that extent in an accident last April when his machine hit a rut near the railroad on North Main st. The jury has cut into the middle of the road and thereby caused a collision.

The court held the verdict excessive in the light of the evidence established by the plaintiff and the remittitur was ordered leaving a balance of $388.40 against the two defendants. A motion for a new trial presented by the defendants was overruled by the court.
